NEW STEAM BAKERY!
THE subscribers having completed an extensive STEAM BAKERY in this city, invite the attention of the public to the choice and excellent articles of their manufacture, which they confidently believe will meet the wishes of all who may be disposed to favor them with their patronage. Our celebrated "Nutritive Crackers"
have obtained a wide celebrity, and been manufactured by us for a long time at Saco, Maine. Their reputation in this and every place where known is firmly established, and they are invariably of the same excellent quality. These Crackers are the discovery of our Foreman, Mr. F. H. HASKILL, and are the only Crackers to be found in New England that are compounded and prepared upon correct chemical principles. Instead of rotting the dough into a state of loathsome and disgusting putrescence, thereby utterly destroying the saccharine and nutritive principles of the Flour, as is universally the caseat present, our processes cause us to make use of the dough in a perfectly sweet and healthy condition, thereby producing not only our Crackers, but all the varied and much esteemed articles of our production, in a proper and satisfactory condition to be used as food by mankind, who are declared to be "only a little lower than the angels."
In addition to the common kinds of Cake, we call particular attention to the many kinds made from our own receipts, which, we feel quite safe in saying, will prove perfectly satisfactory to all who become acquainted with them. Among these we enumerate our highly prized
Pound, Sponge, Queen, Fruit, Fancy, Tea,
CALIFORNIA DROP, JENNY LIND COOKIES, and NEW YORK CREAM CAKES.
We also keep on hand superior EGG BISCUIT, from an English receipt. This Biscuit is a great luxury. We also make promptly to order
RICH POUND, CITRON, ALMOND, SILVER, COCOANUT, Fancy Sponge, Gold, Bride's, Rich, and Chess Cakes,—also, Fancy Creams, Rich Jumbles, Fancy Rounds and Spanish Drops.
In closing, we desire to say that we spare no pains to meet the wants and wishes of our patrons. We use invariably the best Flour the market affords. All the other articles consumed by us in our manufactures are carefully selected and of the choicest descriptions. Our Bakery is constantly kept scrupulously neat and cleanly, and our workmen partake of the same general character as the rest of the establishment, and are masters of their business. We fully believe that your acquaintance with us will but confirm the impression we have feebly endeavored to convey, and we respectfully solicit your patronage

WASTED TIME.

Alone in the dark and silent night,
With the heavy thought of a vanished year,
When evil deeds come back to sight,
And good deeds rise with a welcome cheer;
Alone with the spectres of the past,
That come with the old year's dying chime,
There glooms one shadow dark and vast,
The shadow of Wasted Time.

The chances of happiness cast away,
The opportunities never sought;
The good resolves that every day
Have died in the impotence of thought;
The slow advance and the backward step
In the rugged path we have striven to climb;
How they furrow the brow and pale the lip,
When we talk with Wasted Time.

What are we now? what had we been
Had we hounded time as the miser's gold,
Striving with might our meed to win,
Through the summer's heat and the winter's cold;
Shrinking from nought that the world could do;
Fearing nought but the touch of crime;
Laboring, struggling, all seasons through,
And knowing no Wasted Time?

Who shall recall the vanished years?
Who shall hold back this ebbing tide
That leaves us remorse, and shame, and tears,
And washes away all things beside?
Who shall give us the strength e'en now,
To leave forever this holiday rhyme,
To shake off this sloth from heart and brow,
And battle with Wasted Time?

The years that pass come not again,
The things that die no life renew;
But e'en from the rust of his cankering chain
A golden truth is glimmering through;
That to him who learns from errors past,
And turns away with strength sublime,
And makes each year outdo the last,
There is no Wasted Time.

Miscellaneous.

TROT---A CHRISTMAS STORY.

BY S. ANNIE FROST.

"Hopedale!"

I opened my sleepy eyes as the conductor's voice rang through the cars, and, taking my little carpet bag, sprang out upon the platform of the little station. My brief holiday was over, and, with a shrug, I prepared for my short walk through the morning air, looking forward to the good fire and cup of coffee I was sure Mrs. Watson was keeping for me.

It was a rare event for me to leave the little village whose name heads this story. My father had been the only resident physician there from the time when I was a boisterous schoolboy up to the hour when, in his professional rounds, he fell dead with heart disease in the main street, leaving me, his heretofore assistant, sole heir to his name, property and practice. Ten years before they had carried my dear mother to the little churchyard, and installed Mrs. Watson housekeeper in her place. The villagers were willing to let the young doctor step into his father's place beside their sick beds, and so for five years I had filled his duties. In all those five years I had taken no holiday, so when an invitation came from my old friend and since correspondent, Clement Payne, to spend Christmas with him, at his father's place on the Hudson, I was sorely tempted to accept and finally concluded to do so. It was literally Christmas I spent, leaving home at midnight on the 24th, and my friend's house exactly twenty four hours later. It had been a pleasant break in the monotony of my life, and as I stood at sunrise on the Hopedale station platform, I was sure my recreation would give me a new vigor for my daily duties.

As I turned to descend the steps leading to the road, some impulse, nay a Providence, led me to look in at the window of the room, by courtesy "Ladies' Room," of the station. It was cold and desolate. No fire was lighted, and there was no furniture, unless the hard wooden benches against the walls could be so denominated. But curled up on one of those benches, sleeping soundly, lay a strange child His dress of rich fur-trimmed velvet, the warm fur cap, long gaiters and mittens spoke of wealth and care, and the pale face, round which clustered short curls of sunny brown, was round with health and wonderfully beautiful. He was no Hopedale child; I knew them all. My professional instinct made my heart thrill with a sudden shock, as I caught sight of the pale face, for well I knew the danger of that deep sleep in the biting winter air. How long had he been there? Was he already dead? were the questions I asked myself as I strode across the room, and lifted him in my arms. There was no breath came from the white lips, no throb at the wrist, only a faint, very faint fluttering under my fingers as I pressed them over the baby heart. Mantling him warmly in my heavy cloak, I tore down the steps and raced along the road homeward at a pace that would have considerably amazed my patients, had any of them been awake at that early hour.

Allowing Mrs. Watson no time for amazement, I pressed her into service, and in what she called "a jiffy," we had the little form undressed, in my bed, undergoing the most vigorous treatment. It was so long before we were successful that my heart almost failed me, but at last the faint heart throbs grew stronger; color came to the pale lips and cheeks, and a pair of large brown eyes appeared from under the heavily fringed lids I had watched so anxiously.

Only a look of sleepy inquiry was visible, as he stared a moment at me, then obeying my order to drink the warm food Mrs. Watson held to his lips, my little patient closed his eyes again, and turned over to finish his nap. He was safe now, I knew; so leaving him to Mrs. Watson's care, who by this time knew as much about him as I did, I went to sleep myself, to be ready for the day's duties.

It was nearly nine o'clock when my housekeeper roused me to say that breakfast was ready and the child awake.

Very wide awake I found him, the glorious brown eyes staring round my room, taking in every detail of its arrangement.

"Who are you? How did I get here? Am I nearly at Australia? Who's that man in the picture?" were the questions poured rapidly forth, before I had time to frame one inquiry. "I want to get up! Who's got my clothes?" came next; then, "Who put me to bed without any nightgown?"

Not a sign of fear or a word of homesickness? I was puzzled.

"What is your name?" I asked, sitting down beside him.

"Trot! I want to get up!"

"You shall get up in a minute, but first tell me your name, and how you came to be asleep in the station?"

"My name's Trot; and the plaguy cars started off without me when I got out. It was a dark night and I could not catch them so I went into the room and went to sleep till they came again."

"Was your mother in the train—in the car?"

"No; nobody but just me. I'm going to Australia."

"Going to Australia?"

"Yes; Ellen's there! They have roses there at Christmas, and we wanted some for our tree."

"But, my child, you did not leave home alone?"

"Yes I did! I ain't afraid! I'm going back right away, as soon as I find Ellen and get the roses."

"But don't you know you will have to sail in a great ship for months to get to Australia?"

"Ellen went in the cars. We saw her go, mamma and I. We went in the carriage and said good by, and she got into the cars with Mr. Williams."

"Who is Mr. Williams?" I said eagerly catching at a name.

"Ellen's husband. Our milkman he was, before he went to Australia. He's jolly, and always filled my cup for nothing, when I was up."

"And who was Ellen?"

"My nurse."

"What's your father's name?"

"Papa!"

"But his other name?"

"'Harry, dear,' mamma always called him so."

"Where does he live?"

"He's dead!" said the child in a whisper, "Mamma cries all the time, most, and wears an ugly black gown every day."

"Well, where does mamma live?"

"At grandma's, with Aunt Daisy, and Walter, and Sue, and baby, and—ain't it funny?—baby's my uncle, and he's so little he has to be carried about, and Walter's littler than me, and he's my uncle, too; and Sue's only six, and she's my aunt."

"Where does grandma live?"

"Why, home, in her own house."

"Well, what is her name?"

"Grandma!" in a very positive tone, and becoming very restive under so much questioning. I took him from the bed and began to dress him, and explain his position; but even when he understood that he must give up his Australian journey, and was made to feel something of his mother's despair at losing him he could give me no clue by which to find his home. Grandpa, grandma, mamma, who was called Mary by the rest, Aunt Daisy and the three children, were all mentioned, and persistent questioning revealed that he lived in a large house in the country, but that was all. My heart grew fairly sick as I looked in his beautiful face and pictured the grief of his widowed mother over the loss of this only child. In vain I searched his clothing for the mysterious "locket containing the miniature of a beautiful female," always found on the stray children in novels; no "strawberry or raspberry mark" disfigured his smooth, white skin. His clothing, of the most dainty material and make, was marked with the initials "A. H."

Days passed away, and still the little Trot—for he would own no other name—was an inmate of my cottage, the very darling of Mrs. Watson's motherly heart. I advertised him in all the large cities, hoping some paper would reach his country home; yet, as the days wore away, and he became reconciled to his new home, and ceased to grieve for his family, I began to dread the hour when he should be claimed. His frank, bright joyousness, his merry prattle, his loving caresses, began to fill an unsuspected void in my heart, and Mrs. Watson was a perfect slave to his loving tyranny. She made him pretty garments to replace the rich velvet suit which we put carefully aside, in case they were ever required to prove his identity. She furnished for his bedroom a small apartment leading from her own sleeping room. She made the day one long act of service for his comfort, and as weeks glided into months, and there was no clue found to guide us to his home, she taught him to call her grandma, while "Uncle Charlie" became my newly-acquired title. To tell how he was petted in the village would be a vain task to attempt. To say that he was the hero and idol of Hopedale, will give but a faint idea of his popularity. Gradually the memory of his home, Ellen, the visit to Australia, died away, and he seemed to forget that he had ever lived away from us. Mamma and Aunt Daisy had been the two of whom he spoke most; but I judged from all he said, that his father's death was very recent, and his residence at his grandparent's a brief visit only in his memory.

Eleven months had this dear little treasure been an inmate of my house, when there came into my life a new dream of hope and happiness. About five miles from Hopedale there resided, and had lived for many long years, an eccentric old bachelor, by name Herman Graham. His home, Leehaven, was very far away from any cluster of houses, indeed nearly a mile from any other residence; and here, in solitary state, with only two ancient servitors for his household, he had lived ever since I could remember. He was a morose, ill-tempered man, and some early cross had made him adopt a perfect hermit-like seclusion, though his wealth would have commanded every advantage society could offer. It was early in November that I was summoned to attend this odd genius, professionally. The little note brought to my office by an elderly man on horseback, was signed "Lilian Graham," and urged my immediate attention.

It was a long, cold drive, but the man represented his master as very ill, so I prepared to obey the summons. "I had no idea your master had a daughter," I said, referring to my note.

"That's master's niece," was the reply; "a nice, sweet spoken young lady as ever I see. She comes down on a visit sometimes from her father's place near Albany. They were burnt out, her father's folks, last winter, and the family all went to Europe while the new house was a-building. They came home about a fortnight ago, but they won't go to the new house till spring, so some of them's a boarding in New York, und some in Albany, and Miss Lilian she's come to spend the winter with her uncle. They're all coming down for Christmas, I expect."

I found my new patient very ill, and for a week my visits were frequent, and more than once I passed a whole night by his bedside. I do not mean this for a love tale, so I will not weary my reader with the why and wherefore of my heart bending in allegiance to Lilian Graham's charms. Her beauty, gentleness, and winning grace touched my heart as no woman had ever before thrilled it, and before that weary week of anxiety and watching was over I loved her. As her uncle began to recover, my visits slid from a professional capacity to a social one, and I saw that my welcome was a sincere one from both the old gentleman and the fair girl, whose devotion to his bed proved her love. I was agreeably surprised to find the hermit neither so savage or inaccessible as he had been represented to me. He had a painful chronic disorder; his manner was brusque, and his voice often harsh, but he could soften, and I was able to give him relief from pain, for which he repaid me by a gracious reception.

Christmas was drawing near, and I resolved to lay my heart before Lilian, and ask her to be my wife. I was heir to considerable property left by my father, I had a good practice, a pleasant home, and could offer her the pure love of a young heart, so I was not without hope, especially as I could see the flush deepen on her cheek, and a glad light spring to her blue eyes whenever I was announced. She wore mourning, and I often longed to question her about the loss it implied, but our brief interviews were very brief, and but seldom occurred, and she never spoke of her sorrow.

I, too, had a story to tell. Of course, if she became my wife, she must hear about Trot.

It was the day before Christmas, and the snow was smooth and hard around Hopedale; so I ventured to propose a sleighride, meaning to open my heart to her as we drove. She accepted my proposal readily, and we were soon on our way. Somehow there fell a long silence between us; I longing but not daring to speak, my eyes fixed upon that lovely face framed in its pretty, fur-bound hood, the eyes looking down, the sweet mouth set with a sadder expression than I had ever seen it wear. Suddenly she spoke:

"I expect my parents, brothers and sisters here to-morrow."

"For Christmas gayeties?" I questioned.

"No, to escape them. They are coming here to pass the day quietly, far away from any festivity. It is a sad day for us. Doctor, do you believe in a broken heart?"

"Yes; I know they exist."

"And are fatal?"

"Sometimes! I have seen heavy sorrow drain away life!"

"My poor sister," she said sadly, her eyes filling with tears, "I fear her heart is broken." And after a pause she said: "A year ago—a year ago—poor little Trot!"

"Trot," I cried breathlessly.

"My sister's only child who died on Christmas day, last year."

"Died?" I said, my hopes sinking.

"Burnt to death," she said, sadly. "We had a Christmas tree for the children in the nursery. My sister had been a widow only three months, so we had no holiday gathering, but we drest a tree for the little ones and lighted it on Christmas Eve. The next morning they, the children we mean, were all in the nursery, and we suppose one of them tried to light the tree. Certain it is that they set the room on fire, and before we could save anything the whole house was in flames. All escaped but my sister's child, her only one; he perished in the fire."

"Are you certain?"

"Where else could he be? My two little brothers and my sister were saved with difficulty, and the roof fell in while we were all frantically searching and calling for Arthur, or, as we always called him, Trot. My sister's health gave way entirely under this blow. She had concentrated all the strength of her love upon this child after her husband died, and the loss prostrated her utterly. We took her to Europe; we have had the best advice for her, but she is slowly dying of a broken heart."

"It is from no impertinent curiosity," said I, "that I question you. Will you answer my inquiries?"

We were speeding over the frozen ground toward my home, as she answered—

"Certainly."

"This little child—had he a pet name for you?"

"Yes; my home name. They all call me Daisy, and he called me Aunt Daisy."

"And your sisters' names are Mary and Sue, your brothers' Walter and Baby."

"Yes, yes," she said, turning very pale.

"And Trot's nurse, Ellen, did she go to Australia?"

"Yes, a year ago last fall. Your face is radiant! Speak quickly—our lost boy!"

We were at my door; her face was ashy white with emotion, but she obeyed my motion and let me lead her from the sleigh to my office. I made her sit down, and began to explain, when—"Uncle Charlie's come! Uncle Charley!" rang out from my pet's voice, and Trot burst into the room. Lilian rose to her feet with a wild cry of "Trot! Arthur! darling!"

For a moment he stood bewildered; then a sudden rush of memory came over the childish heart, and he sprang into her arms.

"Aunt Daisy! Where's mamma! I want to see mamma! Quick! quick! Uncle Charley, Aunt Daisy, take me to mamma!

For nearly three hours we sat in the little office before Lilian could tear herself away from the child, but at last she let me take her to the sleigh, consoling Trot by a promise that tomorrow he should see his mother.

I left the disclosure to her womanly tact. But on the morrow, when I drove over with the child, dressed in his black velvet suit, altered to fit him by Mrs. Watson's trembling fingers and moisteded I am sure by many tears, I found all prepared for the great joy.

Such a Christmas never dawned for me. To tell of the gratitude of the pale widow, the joy of the grandparents, the boisterous greetings between the children, is beyond the power of my pen.

Of course the precise time and manner of Arthur's escape from the house we could not conjecture. The nurse was in the kitchen nearly an hour when the alarm of fire was given, and the flames had gained great headway before they were discovered, the family sitting room being on another floor, and some distance from the nursery. Of course the fearless boy had left the house before the attempt to light the tree was made, but the others, absorbed in Christmas delights, did not miss him. The distance from the house to the station was very short, and Ellen had gone to New York from the little village near which Mr. Graham's house pas situated. The departure for Europe and the certainty all felt for his fate, had prevented any serach being made for the boy, and we presumed the railway officials supposed he belonged to some party on the train.

It was a glad day for all, for if I lost my little treasure, I won from Lilian the right to be called in good truth Trot's Uncle Charley.

☞ President Johnson is master of the situation. While many, in Congress and out of it, believed that he had submitted the reconstruction question to the Legislative branch of Government, Mr. Johnson cut the gordian knot. Alabama and Georgia, perhaps other States recently in rebellion, are now as entirely emancipated from the control of the General Government over their local matters as is Massachusetts. When the Provisional Governors gave way to the elected State authorities, there was an end to the martial law which had been established by conquest. In Europe Mr. Seward's proclamation and letters would have been called a coup d' etat, here it is styled a flank movement, and a successful one at that, so far as the re-establishment of the States are concerned.—Wash. cor.

☞ A singular chain of circumstances led to the detection of a thief at Hazardville, Ct. The sexton of one of the churches had "set" the bell in ringing it on Sunday; it stuck fast with the bottom upward, and as he had no key to the belfry, he was obliged to leave it so. At midnight, the bell swung back of its own accord and raised an alarm of fire. One of the people who were aroused staid out longer than his neighbors, and so came upon one Frank Olmstead, who was taking goods out of a tin shop and packing them into a wagon, which, with the horse, he had previously stolen. Help was secured, and Olmstead was arrested.

☞ Raphael Semmes is to be tried by a navy court martial on a charge and specification preferred by Secretary Welles, for violating the usages of war. The specification sets forth that after having the white flag on the Alabama he escaped to avoid actual surrender, and did subsequently, without having been exchanged, engage in hostilities. Semmes has protested on the ground that he was in command of a naval brigade when Johnston surrendered to Sherman, and entitled to the privileges of the capitulation.

Gov. James L. Orr of South Carolina, has sent a dispatch to Secretary Seward in response to that of the latter, announcing the President's supersedeure of the Provisional Government in that State. Gov. Orr states that this announcement will be most gratifying to the South Carolinians, returns thanks in their name, and declares his "unalterable purpose to aid in upholding the supremacy of the laws of the United States."

☞ Rathman Davis of Andover raised the past season twelve full ears of corn from one kernel, the increase being two thousand two hundred and seventy five fold. The same plant silked in other places, producing a straight cob from two to four inches long, one of which had a little corn on it. Another stalk produced eleven, and several more from six to nine ears each.

LOGIC; OR, THE WAGER WON.—Two gentlemen who had been born on the same day, were once celebrating the event by a dinner to their mutual friends. After the cloth was removed, and the social glass had circulated pretty freely, one of the hosts said to the other: "What'll you lay, Johnson, that I do not prove myself considerably older than you?" "Why, that's downright nonsense," returned the other, "and, as I am sure of winning, I'll bet you a rump and a dozen you cannot do it." "Done!" "Done!" "Well, then," said the first speaker, "what is your age to day?" "Forty," said Johnson. "Why, then," cried the other triumphantly, "as we were both born on the same day, I must of course be forty two!" A hearty laugh followed this logical deduction, and it was allowed on all hands that the wager was fairly won, although at the expense of adding two years to the age of the winner.

CARL SCHURZ'S REPORT.

Carl Schurz thus sums up the conclusion of his Southern tour:

I may sum up all I have said in a few words. If nothing were necessary but to restore the machinery of Government in the States lately in rebellion in point of form, the movement made to that end by the people of the South might be considered satisfactory.

But if it is required that the Southern people should also accommodate themselves to the result of the war in point of spirit, these movements fall far short of what must be insisted upon.

The loyalty of the masses and most of the leaders of the Southern people consist in submission to necessity. There is, except in individual instances, an entire absence of that national spirit which forms the basis of true loyalty and patriotism.

The emancipation of slaves is submitted to only in so far as chattel slavery in the old form could not be kept up. But, although the freedman is no longer considered the property of the individual master, he is considered the slave of society, and all independent State legislation will show the tendency to make him such. The ordinance abolishing slavery, passed by the convention under the pressure of circumstances, will not be looked upon as barring the establishment of a new form of servitude. Practical attempts on the part of the Southern people to deprive the negro of his rights as a freedman, may result in bloody collisions, and will certainly plunge Southern society into restless fluctuations and anarchical confusion.

Such evils can be prevented only by continuing the control of the National Government in the States lately in rebellion until free labor is fully developed and firmly established, and the advantages and blessings of the new order of things have disclosed themselves. This desirable result will be hastened by a firm declaration on the part of the Government that national control in the South will not cease until such results are secured. Only in this way can that security be established in the South which will render numerous immigration possible, and such immigration would materially aid a favorable development of things. The solution of the problem will be very much facilitated by enabling all the loyal and free labor elements of the South to exercise a healthy influence upon legislation; it will hardly be possible to secure the freedman against oppressive class legislation and private persecution unless he be endowed with a certain measure of political power.

As to the future peace and harmony of the Union, it is of the highest importance that the people of the States lately in rebellion be not permitted to build up another "peculiar institution," whose spirit is in conflict with the fundamental principles of our political system; for as long as they cherish interests peculiar to them in preference to those they have in common with the rest of the American people, their loyalty to the Union will always be sustained.

I desire not to be understood as saying that there were no well meaning men among those who were comprised in the rebellion. There are many, but neither their number nor their influence is strong enough to control the manifest tendency of the popular spirit.

There are good reasons to hope that a determined policy on the part of the national Government will produce innumerable and valuable conversions. This consideration counsels lenity as to persons, such as is demanded by the humane and enlightened spirit of our times, and vigor and firmness in the carrying out of principles, such as is demanded by the national sense of justice and the exigencies of our situation.

In submitting this report I desire to say that I have conscienciously endeavored to see things as they were, and to represent them as I saw them. I have been careful not to use language stronger than was warranted by the thoughts I intended to express.

A comparison of the tenor of the annexed documents with that of my report will convince you that I have studiously avoided overstatements. Certain legislative attempts at present made in South Carolina, seem to be more than justifying the apprehensions I have expressed.

Conscious though I am of having used my best endeavors to draw from what I saw and learned correct general conclusions, yet I am far from placing too great a trust in my own judgment, when interests of such magnitude are at stake. I know that this report is as complete as an observation of a few months would enable me to make it. Additional facts might be elicited, calculated to throw new light upon the subject. Although I see no reason for believing that things have changed for the better since I left the South, yet such may be the case. Admitting then, all these possibilities, still I would entreat you to take no irretraceable step towards releaving the States lately in rebellion from all national control, until such favorable changes are clearly and unmistakably ascertained.

To that end, and by virtue of the permission you honored me with when sending me out, to communicate to you my views as to measures of policy proper to be adopted, I would now respectfully suggest that you advise Congress to send one or more "investigating committees" into the Southern States, to inquire for themselves into the actual condition of things before final action is taken upon the readmission of such States to their representation in the legislative branch of the Government and the withdrawal of all national control from that section of the country.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—Five children killed. A boiler in the foundry of Charles Knowlton, at Logansport, Ind., exploded on the 15th inst, instantly killing five children and badly scalding two employees named Wilkinson and Edgington. The boiler was blown eighty-three yards from the foundation, making a total wreck of the building. Three of the children killed belonged to the engineer. They were warming themselves at the furnace at the time of the explosion. One of them was thrown across the street and against a stone building, and badly mutilated. Another was thrown across the canal, and a third was found in the middle of the street.

☞ One of the Sluice Gang was shot on the ice at Milltown on Monday evening. A number of young men were skating, when three or four of the Sluice Gang attacked a young man named Smith, and beat him and drove him off He went home, got his revolver, and went back with the determination of remaining as long as he pleased, and of defending himself if again attacked. On being again assaulted, he drew his revolver and put a ball through one fellow by the name of Condon, and fired at another chap, and the rest left in a hurry. We understand Condon has since died. The sentiment of the community was, "wish he had killed the whole gang."—Calais Advertiser.

PETROLEUM.—Prof. Brackett, of Bowdoin College, in a lecture at Lewiston, gave the following explanation of the deposit of this substance:—"Petroleum oil is by some supposed to be the product of coal distillation. But this is not the case, as the absence of coal has no effect upon the presence of petroleum. It is not so recent a discovery as many may suppose. The slime employed by the builders of the tower of Babel was nothing but concreted petroleum. The Egyptians used it in saturating the embalming wrappings. It was well known to the ancients, but in an impure state, the refining process not being understood by them. It is formed from the oleaginous animals of the early periods."

BIDDEFORD, ME., JAN. 5, 1865

THE YEAR THAT IS GONE.

It is the universal custom among all people to welcome the advent of the new year in joyful accents, and to gladly give a hasty good-bye to the old; and this is but in keeping with the habits of all of us, more or less—to forget that for which we have no further use, whether in the service of friends or of things. If it be true that there is a Skeleton in every house, it may also be true that there is one in every heart; and God help and tenderly pity them who can not lock the unwelcome visitor in some remote recess, but at whose musings the sorrowing shadow will unbidden come. If, too, we have been successful for a while in keeping that shadow from off our hearts, and it again o'erwhelms us, bringing no surcease of sorrow, the old year dead and gone will be a retrospect of beauty to be carefully preserved for all the time to come, while we march on trusting to the fulfillment at some time of that comforting promise, "Thy sun shall no more go down, neither shall thy moon withdraw itself; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended."

To others, and let us hope their numbers are many, the new year brings joy and strength. However moodily dull care may have sat upon their brow, and whatever may have been their past trials, they have learned to bear them all, and in the learning have grown strong. Happy, happy shall we all be, if, in the crucible of the past, we have garnered up choice grains of wisdom. Let us fold them up carefully, and stepping over the threshold of the new year, take them with us to be our guide and monitor in future endeavors; and so shall our strength be equal to our days.

But these are private griefs and joys. They come to nations as they come to individuals. The year last past found us a nation clad in the habiliments of mourning. Almost every door-post in the land was sprinkled with the blood of the slain. It has left a people joyous and glad for the blessings following in its train. Memories of the great and good who have distinguished themselves; memories of the brave dead who offered their lives as sacrifices; memories of heroic deeds of heroic men both living and dead; memories of a deep and unfathomed patriotism on the part of the people; gentle memories of love and womanly endurance of sorrow—which the past strife has brought forth, the closing scenes of which the old year witnessed, are interwoven in the chaplet of our nation's glory, and there they will remain forever.

So, gather together all your saddest mementoes of that old year gone we know not where, lock them up and throw away the key; profit by past experiences of good and evil; form new resolves that shall make you better men and women; and thus, keeping step to a better monitor within, shall the new year be a happy one to you, indeed.

THE POSITION.

The Copperheads, instead of ceasing their fulsome adulations of President Johnson, have redoubled their impudence and fawning, and even go so far as to crack their whip over the heads of Republican officials, and threaten them with removal, unless they act so and so. Portland being just now convulsed in that way, and the Argus being the brazen calf which, according to its own story, the President is to fall down and worship. In one sense we are pleased at this state of things. The so called Democratic Party know very well, that if they go before the people with any past issue, they are sure to be repudiated. That a confession of this fact is made, is one step in the right direction. Again: If under any circumstances, however humiliating to them, and however hypocritical they may be, they shall be forced into a support of measures best for the country, we see every thing to gain and nothing to lose. In that light we welcome them into the support of the President, not as they understand that support, but as we hope results will justify.

There is no future for the party that opposed the war against rebellion, save through new issues and a division of the Republican Party. To create the first and accomplish the last, as we have often said, is the only tie that holds together the organization of that party. At the present time public sentiment is divided in reference to the position of the States recently in rebellion,—the Republicans insisting upon guarantees for future security; the opposition asserting that compulsory loyalty is good enough for them, and the disarming of rebels is sufficient punishment for treason. Hence the one party is determined that rebels shall not be admitted to full fellowship with patriots, until they have shown works meto for the profession of their new faith; the other party care nothing for the character of worthy or unworthy recipients of restored political power, but with them the question is solely one of policy—"Can we afford to give up the ghost when, by getting the ex rebels back into power, they will be our allies and we theirs?" Between the two, not in principle, but in action, stands the Executive, and he believes that "the South" in good faith is prepared to accept and act upon the conditions previously required by him before turning over the State governments to the people thereof.

While it will thus be seen that there exists a difference of opinion between the President and a majority of Congress, it will also be seen that it is an honest difference, not in reference to the necessity of the security which should be given, but whether it has not already been given.

THE FENIAN MOVEMENT.

The Fenian Convention assembled this week, composed of delegates from the different circles in the United States. The Senate of the Fenian Congress having deposed their President, "Col." O'Mahoney, the question to be decided is, whether the circles will support the Senate, or the President who declines to stay deposed. The cause of the quarrel seems to be upon the question of finances, who shall control the well filled coffers, the receipts having amounted to upwards of $5,000,000. That thus early in the enterprise of starting a republic based upon an airy nothing, such a quarrel and division should arise, gives little promise of an hereafter in the political world better than which the Irish now enjoy. The scheme of overthrowing English rule in Ireland, looks preposterous. We do not denounce it; because there is no occasion to conceal the fact, that nearly the universal people of the United States would gladly see the thing successful, if when it is done, it were well done. But we deprecate the movement, because its ostensible object will surely result in a woful failure, unless this country should go to war with England.

Let what will come, the Fenians, in spite of themselves, are doing a great work, and are liberating themselves and their countrymen—not from English rule, but from papal tyranny. They are opposed by the whole Romish Church, its comet-like bulls are hurled against them, all its terrors are held over them, they are excommunicated and denied the rites of Catholic burial, and yet the numbers who are separating themselves from the superstitions of that church, are increasing every day. A century, yea, fifty years ago such a result would have been an impossibility, but the last year marks an extraordinary era in the Romish faith, and its influence has been greatly weakened.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

☞ At the Boston Museum the play called "The Road to Ruin" has been very successfully acted during the past week. It is elsewhere very successfully acted, and the play is largely patronized.——A rich Mr. Neald has bequeathed to Queen Victoria $1,250,000.——A man and his wife in Worcester, Mass., died from inhaling gas from a defective coal-stove.——A man on Hanover street, Boston, signalized the departure of the year by cutting the throat of his wife and then his own. Both were alive at last accounts.——Secretary Seward and family have gone to Havana, and from thence to the Rio Grande.——Gen. Logan is said to have aspirations for the U. S. Senate, from Illinois, and we hope he will get there.——The negroes, much to the disappointment and chagrin of the great reconstructed, have been very quiet and law-abiding during the holidays. An uprising of negroes in the South would be a god-send to the copperheads, and would justify Nasby in issuing a "sam."——In the closing number of the Liberator, E. Cady Stanton is out with an appeal for the elective franchise to be extended to the weaker but prettier sex. That won't do, Cady. Petticoats are beautiful and handy things to have about the house, and perhaps we might venture to call them indispensable to any well regulated family; but the family of American sovereigns know too much to allow the ballot box to get demoralized. Just think, Cady, of the languishing black or blue eyes appealing for our vote! The eyes would have it, for the man in such a case, who could withstand a lovely woman's eloquence, would be fit for treason, stratagem, &c., and we should be patriotic.——The Androscoggin, and Bates Mills, at Lewiston, have declared a semi-annual dividend of 25 per cent., and the former's three last dividends have equalled the amount of the original capital stock.

☞ The cattle plague is alarmingly on the increase in England.——A learned Frenchman has discovered that Adam was 123 feet tall, and Eve 118 feet ditto, but he fails to mention that as high up as they were in the world they were able to have only one cane between them.——An English magazine says that American women have degenerated physically, because they live too much in doors. It has long been the opinion of our own physicians that they waste too much time in staying in doors.——Gen. Henry Winter Davis, of Maryland, is dead. He was an able and patriotic man, and in the beginning of our troubles, if we can call a culmination a beginning, "was faithful among the faithless found."

☞ Rarey, the horse tamer, has been struck with paralysis. It ought to have been kind to him, he was so merciful.——They make large pumpkin-pies in Massachusetts; at the ladies' Fair in Charlestown there was one measuring 4 1 2 feet in circumference.——A wind recently blew Pat Murphy 4000 guineas when it blew off the thatch of his cottage in Ireland.——Col. S. S. Goode, formerly Colonel of General Grant's first regiment, has fallen heir to an English estate and the title of of Sir. Good luck.——The celebrated Strong divorce case in New York, costing $40,000, has been brought to a close, the jury being unable to agree. Those bonds of affection are uncommonly strong.——About $1,000,000 have just been destroyed by fire in Philadelphia.——Six children have died in Illinois of hydrophobia by drinking the milk of a cow bitten by a mad dog.——Congress was to assemble on the 3rd inst, but we find no mention made of such assembling, in the reports from Washington.

Desire of the South for a Foreign War.—A Richmond correspondent of The N. Y. Times, writes that—

Notwithstanding the distressed condition of this section financially, there is a generally expressed wish that our government should become embroiled in a foreign war. This wish finds its origin with a certain class, in the heartfelt longing for an opportunity to wipe out the disgrace now attached to them on account of the rebellion. There are men here who held high offices in the Confederate army who would willingly enlist as privates under the "old flag," in case of a war with France or England. While hesitating to acknowledge it publicly, a majority of the people of the South feel the disgrace which attaches itself to the name of rebel, or bitterly regret their folly in winning for themselves that of traitor. To free themselves from this imputation, and to put themselves again on a level with their Northern brethren, they are willing to do almost anything. "If we get up a Mexican war," said a prominent official to me last evening, "Gen. Lee will almost be willing to go as a lieutenant, and Jo. Johnston would serve under him as a sergeant."

Maine Legislature.—Convened on Wednesday, Jan. 3, 1866. The Senate organized by electing William Wirt Virgin, of Oxford county, President unanimously. Thomas P. Cleaves of Brownfield was elected Secretary, and W. S. Clark of Sangerville, Asst. do.

In the House, James M. Stone of Kennebunk was elected Speaker, Franklin M. Drew of Brunswick, Clerk, S. J. Chadbourn of Dixmont, Asst. do. On Thursday Gov. Cony was inaugurated and delivered his Message.

☞ Geo. A. Dingley, of Waterville, has been sentenced to six months imprisonment in the jail in this city, for doing business as a retail liquor dealer without a license, as provided by the Internal Revenue Laws of the United States.—Ken. Jour.

☞ The Buffalo Express figures up that during the last forty years Mexico has had thirty seven different forms of governments, thirty-two of which were "Republics," and seventy Presidents! Its revolutions during that time have amounted to over two hundred. Many years since a Mexican protectorate was urged upon the United States by Gen. Houston, upon the ground that the Mexican people otherwise would fall a prey to some European power. The project was condemned and abandoned.

☞ The total losses in New York by fire the past year amounted to over forty-three millions of dollars, against about twenty-eight and a half millions the previous year.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

History of the Class of 1862 (Bowdoin), by F. A. Hill. Biddeford: Union and Journal.

It is a very worthy custom for college classes, after graduation, to have a triennial report printed containing a personal history of each member since the day of separation. Generally this report is the last; for after three years of this busy life of ours, the restless, bustling Yankee strays so far from his Alma Mater that his wanderings cannot be traced, and though not out of mind, yet these classmates drop from sight of each other, only to appear, alas! all too soon in the necrology of Commencement. The Bowdoin class of 62 present a noble array of names who relinquished prospects in life certainly as bright as belonged to the same number of other men, to fight for their country, and the death-record of this history tells how they died "where ranks are contending."

"Not to the shades shall the youth descend who for country hath perished;
Hebe awaits him in heaven, welcomes him there with her smile;
There, at the banquet divine, the patriot-spirit is cherished;
God loves the young who ascend pure from the funeral pile.
* * * * * * * * * * *
But on Olympian heights shall dwell the devoted forever;
There shall assemble the good, there the wise, valiant, and free."

Mr. Hill has written his class history in an easy and entertaining style, yet concise and modest. Perhaps we cannot better illustrate than to take an extract from the Secretary's report of himself: * * * "In the summer of 1863, was drafted into the U. S. service, and put in Edwin Emery, class of '61, Bowdoin College, as substitute. By proxy distinguished himself in military service; was twice wounded, once severely; was army correspondent of the Union and Journal, Biddeford, and rose from private to Second Lieutenant 17th Maine." The History is printed in the most elegant style, and without regard to cost.

The Philadelphia Home Weekly.—This handsome illustrated sheet is one of the very best literary and family newspapers in the country. It contains in a month considerably more matter than the ordinary monthly magazines, and of a character fully equal to the best of the latter. Indeed its contributors are the choicest writers of the Atlantic, Harper's, Godey's, Paterson's, Arthur's, Ladies' Repository, Young Folks', and other leading magazines. During the past year the proprietors offered $1,500 for prize stories, which are to be published the coming year. Terms $2 a year, or two copies for $3; eight copies for $10; or sixteen copies for $20, and one to the getter-up of the club. Published by George W. Childs, S. W. corner Third and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia.

Demorest's Monthly Magazine and Mirror of Fashion.—We have received the January number. It is a beautiful periodical, and contains besides the usual fashion department (invaluable to the ladies) sufficient literary matter of a high character to make it a popular and much desired magazine for the home circle. The splendid line engraving, "The Elopement," the colored fashion plate, and the allegorical picture of the Old and the New Year, are gems in their departments. The full size patterns which accompany each number, are worth double the cost of the book. Price $3 per year. Address W. Jennings Demorest, 473 Broadway, New York.

The Scientific American begins a new volume with the new year, being now over twenty years old. It is much the largest weekly paper of its class in the country, and aims to give a full account of all the principal inventions of the day with illustrated articles upon tools and machinery used in the various manufactures, and upon war implements, railway machinery, household, horticultural and farm implements, etc. It contains an official list of all the patent claims. Its terms are three dollars a year. Published by Munn & Co., 37 Park Row, New York.—The publishers also act as agents for procuring Patents for new inventions.

A New Weekly.—Messrs. Ticknor & Fields of Boston announce for publication, early in January, the initial number of a new weekly journal entitled Every Saturday. The publishers design this work to supply the American reader, each week, with thirty two large octavo pages of choice reading, selected from the latest English and Continental Magazines and periodicals. Much of the best foreign current literature is not accessible to the general reader on this side of the water. A reproduction of its most attractive features in a desirable and inexpensive form, will be very welcome to all classes of intelligent readers.

The American Agriculturalist, which is puplished at 41 Park Row, New York, closes its twenty-fourth volume with the December number. It is decidedly one of the best agricultural publications in the country; and is filled monthly with contributions from the pens of the most practical men in the country. The amount of reading equals that of any of the $3 magazines, and it is afforded at the low price of one dollar fifty cents in advance.

☞ A new motive power, so to speak, has been discovered. A steam engine of ten-horse power is in operation in West Lake Street, Chicago, which grinds twenty-seven bushels of corn in an hour, with fifty pounds of coal. A common engine would require over one hundred pounds. The invention is in the boiler, which is two inches thick, round, with flattened ends, and holds a barrel. The principle of action is this: A few spoonfuls of water is let into the boiler, which is quite hot; immediately the water is converted into steam, which, probably, is an explosion, hence no other explosion is possible, and the expansion and elasticity of this highly heated steam is sufficient to work the engine. The inventor, Mr. E. Danforth, of Geneva, Ills., says that the boiler will work any other engine. The invention has passed into the hands of a company with a capital of over two million dollars.

☞ The Oxford Democrat pitches into the railroads. It says that the freight on wood is purposely fixed so high as to amount to prohibition of transportation, so as to allow the company to monopolize the market, and purchase the wood at their own prices.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

☞ An engineer on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, Va., while his train was in rapid motion, saw a hawk sitting upon the track ahead, and imagining it to be a broken rail, became so frightened that he jumped from the engine and was immediately killed.

☞ The town of Chio, in the island of Scio, has been almost wholly overthrown by an earthquake, the two lighthouses in the port only remaining uninjured.

☞ The number of French people on this continent, either native born or by descent, is estimated at 1,500,000.

☞ Colt's factory is to be rebuilt at Hartford. The building will be one story higher than the old one.

☞ Col. John T. Mosby, the famous guerrilla, who has probably done more mule stealing than any man living, is associated with Aylett Nichols Esq., the prosecuting attorney in the trial of Mr. Styles, internal revenue collector of the district of Prince William County, Va., who is himself on trial charged with mule stealing.

☞ Prince Alfred, who has the most brains of any of Queen Victoria's children, has very little money, and one reason given for the proposed opening of Parliament by her majesty in person, is to gain the good will of that body, so that it may grant him an annuity suitable to his rank.

☞ Henry's breech loading rifle, presented by Mr. Winchester, of the N. H. Arms Company, has carried of the prize offered by the Swiss Federal Government for the best breech loading fire arms. "The Americans (says the Swiss paper), are now the first in war and the first in peace, because they are determined to be a free people."

☞ At the present time Auburn jail has three inmates put in prison for horse stealing, three for adultery, one for robbing a clothes line, one for stealing a coat, one for riot, one for bastardy, one for assault and battery, and two boys for disturbing school. All committed their offences in Lewiston, except one.

☞ The wild cats in Canada would seem to be getting rather impudent. The Guelph Advertiser states that as Mr. John Walker, farmer, was driving along the road near Osprings last week, with a load of pork, one of these feline monsters was discovered gnawing at one of the hogs.

☞ The temperance people of Cincinnati have opened a coffee room for workingmen, where at all hours of the day and till late at night, hot coffee and crackers or a plate of soup may be had for the small sum of 5 cents. Connected with the coffee-room is a reading room. supplied with the leading newspapers and periodicals of this country and Great Britain; and this is free to all. This is the most practical temperance measure yet adopted.

☞ A poor blacksmith in Ohio recently invested a few dollars in two acres of oil land, out of which in a few months, he made $140,000.

☞ A Birmingham, England, bricklayer's wife gave birth to a child with two heads, three arms and three legs.

☞ A young lady in Westboro' Mass. was married on Thanksgiving day to a returned soldier whom she had never seen before, the courtship having been conducted by letter. On the following morning she put on her cloak and bonnet and ran away, and has not since returned.

☞ We see it stated that our friend N. K. Sawyer, Esq., of the Ellsworth American, has been appointed Collector of the District of Frenchman's Bay, vice Thomas removed. We hope this is true, for Sawyer is a true man in every respect and if any persons should receive public recognition for their services, it is those who have labored honestly and zealously by means of the newspaper. And yet the claims of these persons are too often discarded, and mere political trimmers and schemers receive official positions.—Bath Times.

☞ The Evening Post correspondent says the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives have agreed to report, at an early day, an amendment to the Constitution providing that the number of voters in the States shall form the basis of representation in Dongress.

☞ The White Mountain Bank at Lancaster, N. H., is in the hands of assignees, closing up—bills not current.

☞ Counterfeit three dollar bills on the Claremont Bank, Claremont, N. H., are reported in circulation. They are said to be an imitation of the genuine note.

☞ Washington correspondents say that the Appropriation Committee will report a bill providing for the assumption of the war debt of the loyal States by the general Government.

☞ Measures are in progress looking to the removal of the Methodist Biblical institute from Concord, N. H., to the vicinity of Boston.

☞ A savings bank for colored people established only three months ago in Louisville, Ky., has received in deposits over $30,000. About $7,000 have been received from colored soldiers, originally from Kentucky, but now on duty in Texas. This bank is a branch of a national company called "The Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company," chartered by Congress and approved by President Lincoln, March 3, 1865. President Johnson highly commends it and has directed the Secretaries of the Treasury, War and Navy, to give it all proper facilities.

The Sabbath schools and congregations of Kennebunk had first rate times at their Christmas festivals. The question now is, how to secure as full an attendance on the Sabbath during the year.

The Congregational Society of Buxton and Hollis, Rev. Mr. Bartlett's, gave an Antiquarian Supper at Derrak's Tavern, Salmon Falls, last Monday Eve., which combined all the features of such an entertainment, consisting of post-office, fish pond, fortune telling, &c. The feature of the evening however was the Old Folks and the Tamborine Girl, particularly the latter, whose winning ways drew the money freely from the pocket of all the gentlemen present. The supper was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Grasp, the popular landlord and lady of Saco notoriety, and did credit to themselves and to the getters up thereof; after which remarks were made by Messrs. Joel Marshall, O. B. Chadbourn and Major Paul Chadbourn. The amount realized was about $250.00. Saco and Biddeford's citizens were well represented, most of whom sprung from old Buxton stock, and all of whom came away well satisfied.

A bell has been placed in the new tower of the mill at Kennebunk village. The old wooden water wheel has given place to a horizontal iron one from the foundry of Messrs. B. J. Cole & Co, Lake Village, N. H. Messrs. Hewitt & Foss are putting their machinery into operation.

Rev. Gideon Cook, of Kennebunk, one of our oldest clergymen, was invited to spend a Sabbath with the Baptist church, South Berwick, when they made him a donation of about sixty dollars.

Wednesday evening the Triumph Engine Company dedicated their new Hall on Washington St. It is carpeted and fitted up elegantly and, like the Company, is not excelled, if equalled, by any in the State. The hall was filled with members and invited guests, with their ladies. On behalf of the members the guests were welcomed in a very neat and appropriate speech by Cyrus P. Berry. The exercises consisted of a prayer by Rev. Mr. Stevens, after which speeches were made by William H. Thompson, J. E. Butler, Rev. Mr. Stevens, and Leonard Andrews. Cake and fruit were furnished, and the Biddeford Cornet Band enlivened the occasion with their excellent music.

The first case tried at the present term of the court in Saco was one involving rhubarb to the amount of $3,000. It argues well for the health of the Court and all in attendance. It is a very moving case.

E. H. Foss has again opened a beef market on Chestnut Street, just above the stand formerly occupied by Adams & Huntress, who have removed to Alfred Street. Mr. Foss always keeps the best the market affords, and by his promptness and faithfulness in serving his patrons with just what they need, is deserving of a good share of patronage.

Some of our citizens are afflicted with oil on the brain. Two gentlemen recently visited Bothwell, Canada, and although they returned both well, they imparted the fever to others, and the result is a joint stock company. The shares are quick at five per cent. and upwards.

At an election held in Saco on Saturday, Charles C. Sawyer, Esq., Republican, was elected Representative to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Tapley.

Kittery Navy Yard, Jan. 3d, 1865.

Mr. Editor:—Changes and new orders, in the Navy, are always prevalent. Officers are ignorant to day of what will be their lot to-morrow. This reminds me of an incident that I overheard, a short time since, while crossing the river. Two gentlemen of different opinions were in the boat, one a distinguished officer of the navy, the other a civilian and a clerk on the yard. The officer said he was very much annoyed by the ringing of the factory bell, that called the girls into the mill so early in the morning. He expressed himself quite indignant because he was told that slavery was a sin, and says: "Talk about slavery! look at the long days of toil in these mills, and the hard labor performed here, and compare it with slavery." "Well," says the clerk, very good naturedly, "those girls that work in those mills can go and come when they have a mind to, and that is more than you can do." The conversation dropped.

Paymaster Caleb J. Emery has been detached from the yard (by his own request), and ordered to Hong Kong, China, as fleet paymaster. Mr. Emery has been attached to the yard for a long time, and by his adherance to his extensive duties, and by his affability and politeness, has won a large number of friends. He has performed the duties of Paymaster, Navy Agent, and Inspector of Provisions and Clothing. He will be succeeded by Paymaster Gilman, of Augusta, Maine

The U. S. Steamer Florida arrived here Saturday, for the purpose of escorting the U. S. Steamer Resaca, to Washington. The Florida is a third rate paddle-wheel, of 1261 tons, (old measurement), and carries a battery of seven guns. She brought with her the crew intended for the "Mackinaw," now ready for sea. The Florida and Resaca left here on Monday.

Captain Robert Spinney, of the schooner Mary "Willie," now lying at the wharf, gave a reception to a few of his friends New Year's Day. I must say that Capt. Spinney on that occasion did great credit to himself, and those present expressed themselves very much pleased with the entertainment. The Captain is a resident of Eliot, and has been known for a long time as an energetic and enterprising townsman.

Thomas Norton, a prominent citizen of Portsmouth, fell from the top of a building to the ground, a distance of twenty-five or thirty feet, striking upon his back, which caused his death shortly after. His back was broken by the fall, he being a very heavy man. Mr. Norton was a member of the Mechanics' Association, President of the Mechanics' Fire Society, and a Free Mason. He was buried on Sunday, with masonic honors. He leaves a large family.

The lot on which Congress Block was burned, has been purchased by ten private individuals, on which they will build another block. The new block will be built with stores on the first floor, and a Masonic hall on the second.

The bells were rung in Portsmouth at 12 o'clock at noon, on New Year's Day, and flags were extensively displayed throughout the city.

H. N. Dunyon, a dry goods merchant in Portsmouth, who has been quite sick by bleeding at the lungs, has recently recovered, and able to resume his business. During his sickness his business has been ably attended to by Miss Hattie Tarlton, assisted by Miss Albertina R. Newell.

Paymaster Gilman of the receiving ship Vandalia, has been relieved by Paymaster C. C. Upham, and ordered to settle his accounts

The Daily Evening Voice comes out this week by an enlargement of its columns, and an entire new heading. This is one of the best daily papers that we receive at the yard, devoted almost entirely to the working class. It is ably sustained by a large number of mechanics of this vicinity. Every week it contains a lengthy letter from J. Horace Kent, signed "Steel Pen." The public are well informed relative to the interesting correspondence of Mr. Kent, therefore comment is unnecessary. HORATIUS.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 27th, the parsonage of the Congregational society in Lyman was visited by a large number of the friends and parishioners of Rev. W. A. Merrill, their pastor. The evening was agreeably spent in social conversation, singing, pertinent remarks and devotional services.

It is good for pastor and people, occasionally, to mingle together in the social circle; it promotes mutual good feeling, and tends to deepen the interest in each other's welfare. It intensifies every virtuous desire and sympathetic emotion. To say nothing of the happy influences of such a social gathering, whose waves are ever widening, and can never be numbered in time, the result of this gathering in a single direction was, it yielded, as an expression of love for gospel truth—appreciation of the services of their devoted pastor—sympathy and interest in behalf of his temporal welfare, while he labors for their higher good, the handsome sum of $75.

We mentioned that Col. Kendrick's monument was put up under the superintendence of Captain Gerrish. It should have been Captain Sturges Byron (we believe it was that individual) said that the climax of glory was to die and have your name spelled wrong in the newspapers. As the Captain is a typo and newspaper man, he will appreciate our "feelinks" at the misnomer.

On Thursday, Dec. 28th ult. Mr. F. P. Tarr of Limerick butchered a pig, just 11 months old, which weighed 470 lbs. On the 20th of March last it weighed 25 lbs.

Kennebunk, Jan 1st, 1866.

Mr. Editor:—I wish you a happy New Year, and as I know of nothing that will make the publisher of a paper more happy than to receive the pay for his paper in advance, I have enclosed a two dollar bill, hoping that you will find so many more good-will offerings that you will have no one pocket that will hold them.

There is a building being built near the Saco Grist Mill for washing and cleansing wool.

We understand that Capt. R. F. C. Hartley, of Saco, is about building an hermaphrodite brig of 450 tons at the ship yard; and we also understand that arrangements have been made to build several vessels in the two towns during the season.

Dr. Friedrich, who during the past six months has earned for himself in this vicinity a very desirable reputation for his successful treatment of catarrh, rheumatism, and diseases of the eye, ear and throat, will soon revisit Kennebunk and Biddeford, where he can be consulted as on his previous visits by all desiring his services—all such we advise to give him an early call as his stay is limited. He charges nothing for consultation, and he accepts no applicants as patients unless he is satisfied by a careful examination of their case that he can do them a real and lasting benefit.—Saco Democrat.

John Harding, arrested on the road to Buxton with counterfeit currency, and who was tried before the U. S. Circuit Court in Portland, has been acquitted.

The officers of Saco Division No. 10, S of T., were publicly installed in Town Hall, Saco, last Tuesday evening. The ceremonies were under the direction of P. W. P. Carlton, G. W. P. Stevens, and G. C. Stevens. The officers installed were L. A. Foss, W. P.; E. Delano, W. A.; B. S. Boulter, R. S.; W. Leavitt, Asst. R S.; F. N Hodgdon, T.; C. Hanson, F. S.; F. Lowe, C.; E. Sawyer, A. C.; J. H. Higgins, I. S.; G. F. Owen, O. S.; J. Hawkes, Chap. The "Dashaways" were out in full force, and were a stalwart body of men, well calculated to fight the fell destroyer, King Alcohol; they have commenced in earnest the work of reformation by making two dram shops the less in Saco. The exercises of the evening were opened with prayer by Chaplain Moulton, after which were the usual Installation Ceremonies, interspersed with temperance songs, concluding with addresses by Messrs. Stevens, Beal, Carleton and Kelley, the latter, President of the "Dashaways," who was received with great applause. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity, and all went away highly pleased with the ceremonies, and wishing that they might extend an influence for good.

And here let me urge the necessity of a S. of T. Division in Biddeford. Such a necessity does exist. See to it, ye temperance men of Biddeford, that the work is commenced at once.

Attention is called to Shaw & Clark's advertisement in this paper. Also to that of Harper's Magazine; Locke, of Saco, has the best of magazines promptly for sale each month.

On the evening of Jan. 1st it was so mild that the doors of our stores were opened all the evening, as they usually are in the summer months. It is good wheeling, and much inconvenience is felt by those who have logs and heavy articles to transport. If we remember rightly, the winter of 1842 was still more open. In February the roads were dusty. In 1848 all through this month the ground was as open as in October, but in February the snow and cold were furious.

☞ The Boston Daily Advertiser was the only large paper in that city which did not, on the decline of paper after its first rise, reduce its price from five to three cents. The Advertiser kept up its price, and now sees the advantage of it, and the other papers, which did reduce, are talking of raising again. At the present price of white paper, newspapers cannot be afforded at less than five cents single.

☞ Marshall of New York, who bought up immense quantities of apples in the western New York counties has failed, and several of his agents and coadjutors have gone down with him. One of the latter loses from $20,000 to $50,000. Some of the country banks, too, have a large quantity of this apple paper, and farmers who trusted them have also suffered. The crop of apples proved larger than was expected.

☞ Gen. Butler is still able to joke in a quiet way, and says that if there had been more bottles "tightly corked," in and about the officers' quarters of our army during the war, it would have been a good thing for the country.

☞ A man in New York has been tried for keeping a gambling house for children. It was shown that children from nine to fifteen years of age frequented the place.

☞ The Governor of Ohio presents some rather strange views on the Mexican question, expressing opposition to the cause of the Republicans, and to any efforts on the part of our Government for the enforcement on Mexican soil of the Monroe doctrine, the precise signification of which dogma, it is stated, has never yet been agreed upon even among ourselves.

☞ Down in Washington County, the fines paid by offenders, mostly runsellers, are enough to cover the entire expenses of the court during the year, and leave a surplus of $400, says an exchange.

☞ Of 700 votes in Georgetown, D. C., on the subject of Negro suffrage, only one was thrown for the measure.

☞ We are in the midst of Revolution! Genuine European perfumes are no longer procurable here. The tariff blockades our ports against them. But in their place stands Phalon's "Night Blooming Cereus," the superlative of all floral extracts, and every American lady wonders, as she inhales its odor, how she could ever have tolerated them. Sold everywhere.

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.

THE Chloasma, or Mothpatch (also called Liverspot), and Lentigo, or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either; and any preparation that will effectually remove them without injuring the texture or color of the skin, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. Perry, who has made diseases of the skin a speciality, has discovered a remedy for these discolorations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

Prepared only by B. C. PERRY, Dermatologist, No. 49 Bond street, New York, and for sale by all druggists; price $2 per bottle. Call for

PERIODICAL DROPS,
THE Great Female Remedy
FOR IRREGULARITIES.

THESE Drops are a scientifically compounded fluid preparation, and better than any Pills, Powders or Nostrums. Being liquid, their action is direct and positive, rendering them a reliable, speedy and certain specific for the cure of all obstructions and suppressions of nature. Their popularity is indicated by the fact that over 100,000 bottles are annually sold and consumed by the ladies of the United States, every one of whom speak in the strongest terms of praise of their great merits. They are rapidly taking the place of every other Female Remedy, and are considered by all who know aught of them as the surest, safest and most infallible preparation in the world for the cure of all female complaints, the removal of all obstructions of nature, and the promotion of health, regularity and strength. Explicit directions stating when they may be used, and explaining when and why they should not, nor could not be used without producing effects contrary to nature's chosen laws, will be found carefully folded around each bottle, with the written signature of JOHN L. LYON, without which none are genuine.

Prepared by DR. JOHN L. LYON, 195 Chapel street, New Haven, Conn, who can be consulted either personally or by mail (enclosing stamp), concerning all private diseases and female weaknesses.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the world."

HARPER'S
NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.
Critical Notices of the Press.

It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant (Baltimore).

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellencies of Harper's Magazine—a journal with a monthly circulation of 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood-cuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as cannot be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.
1866.

The Publishers have perfected a system of mailing by which they can supply the Magazine and Weekly promptly to those who prefer to receive their periodical directly from the Office of Publication.

The postage on Harper's Magazine is 24 cents a year, which must be paid at the subscriber's post office.

Terms.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, one year $4.00

An Extra Copy of either the Magazine or Weekly will be supplied gratis for every Club of Five Subscribers at $4.00 each, in one remittance; or Six Copies for $20.00.

Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.

A complete Set, now comprising Thirty-one volumes in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, freight at expense of purchaser, for $2.25 per volume. Single volumes by mail, postpaid, $3.00. Cloth cases, for binding, 58 cents by mail post paid. Address,

Notice to the Public.

In the year 1846, the writer embarked in the Drug Business in the city of Philadelphia, and while thus engaged, made several experiments in regard to the most desirable mode of preparing Fluid Extracts. My efforts being successful—the articles being approved and used by the Medical Faculty—I was desirous of placing them before the public, but hesitated for some time before concluding to resort to newspaper advertising, knowing of the prejudices that existed in the minds of many against using advertised Medicines or Nostrums, but through the advice of friends, and those who had used them, this objection was overcome.

After 18 years' exertions, commencing in a small way, the popularity of my articles has extended to all parts of the United States, and widely throughout Foreign countries—and this in the face of much opposition. Every means has been resorted to by unprincipled dealers since their merit and success have been known—such as advertising larger bottles at less price, censuring all other preparations, and even copying my advertisements—but I am happy to state that out of the many who have resorted to this, none have been successful.

MY OBJECT

in this notice is to make facts known to the public and respectable dealers, believing, after so many years' experience, that the Druggists will discountenance such proceedings, and that the reputation of my articles may not be damaged by the use of inferior or spurious ones.

Knowing that many may read this article who are unacquainted with me, I append a few remarks from those of my native city, and whose names are known in all parts of the world:

"Being personally acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold, it affords me pleasure in stating I have been most favorably impressed with his energy and integrity, and gratified at his success."

WM. WEIGHTMAN,
Firm of POWERS & WEIGHTMAN,
Ninth and Brown streets, Philadelphia.

(Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.)

"When on a visit to the city of New York a few days since, I was induced to call on our old friend and townsman, Mr. H. T. Helmbold, Druggist, 594 Broadway, N. Y. His Store is a Model—a perfect Gem—the handsomest of any kind we have ever had the pleasure of viewing, and so extensive, being 34 feet front, five stories in height, and over 209 feet deep. It indeed affords us much pleasure to know that he has been so successful, and it is ample evidence of the merits of his articles—as in our whole business experience we have not known of the success of any articles without Merit—advertising merely bringing the name before the people."

(Boston Herald.)

"We do not like to advertise worthless wares, or articles calculated to deceive our readers; and when we see an advertiser like Mr. Helmbold, whom we have known for years, gradually extend his advertising from year to year until he becomes the largest advertiser in the United States, we are satisfied that the statements in regard to his articles must be correct."

The writer reluctantly inserts the above, and would not do so were he not a stranger to many; and concludes by stating the names of his articles, and the diseases for which they have been used by many thousands with complete success.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

Helmbold's Extract of Buchu will cure all diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder. Cures Pain or Weakness in the Back, Strictures, &c.; Cures Weak Nerves, Loss of Memory, Trembling, Dimness of Vision.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU

is pure fluid extract, not a weak tea or infusion. Is the one thing needful for all complaints incident to Females. For particulars send for Circular.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU

cures Gravel and Dropsical Swellings existing in Men, Women or Children; in fact, ALL DISEASES requiring the aid of a Diuretic. It is the greatest Tonic and Diuretic known—perfectly safe, pleasant in taste and odor, and immediate in its action.

HEMBOLD'S

Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla,

HIGHLY CONCENTRATED.

One bottle equivalent in strength to one gallon of the Syrup of Description.

It reaches the seat of the disease immediately, expelling all HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, and BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION!

These articles, being of such strength, the dose is exceedingly small. From this fact, it is used in the United States Army Hospitals and public Sanitary Institutions throughout the land.

☞ Sold by all Druggists everywhere.

☞ Ask for Helmbold's. Take no other!

☞ Cut out the advertisement and send for it, and by this means avoid Counterfeit.

American Organ

MAKES HOME ATTRACTIVE,

And refines and elevates the minds of all.

BEAUTIFUL IN ITS APPEARANCE AND EFFECTS.

THESE INSTRUMENTS are pronounced by competent judges, the BEST REED INSTRUMENTS manufactured in the United States. They bore off the palm at the recent State Fair held at Rochester, N. Y., and received the FIRST PREMIUM over the whole catalogue exhibited, including instruments from the most celebrated manufacturers throughout this country.

With the most perfect confidence we call the attention of the public to the AMERICAN ORGAN, as an instrument long desired in the Family Circle, and with our patent improvements, is adapted to all kinds of Music, more especially to Sacred Music, with its sustained tones and harmonies, so much desired and sought for in American homes.

The AMERICAN ORGANS are superior to all other instruments of the kind, in many important particulars.

They are superior in their greater fullness and completeness of tone, volume and power. They are superior in expression, quickness of action, and elasticity of touch, rendering them perfect in rapid movements.

They are superior in quality and beauty of tone; and when controlled by the Double Bellows and Blow Pedals, Knee Swell, &c., the most charming effects can be produced, from the softest whisper of the Æolian harp to the full volume and power of the Church Organ, thus enabling the performer to give expressions not to be found in any other instruments.

The Tremolo Stop has a pleasing and beautiful variety, sympathetic in quality, appealing to the tender emotions of the soul, producing effects the most charming and soothing; it is universally admired and appreciated. The Knee Swell gives the performer full control of the tone, enabling him to graduate from the Pianissimo to the Fortessimo at pleasure, and combines the effect of the Expression Stop of the French Organ in the AMERICAN ORGAN, more perfectly and easily managed.

With all these combinations and improvements of Double Bellows, Pedals and Swell, the AMERICAN ORGAN excels in Expression, Variety and Power, and has all the quality and capacity of a full Orchestra, and in the hands of a master is capable of the most complete orchestral effects.

D. POND,

Being the only authorized Agent to sell the above Instruments in York county, the public are invited to call and examine the American Organs, at No. 4 Crystal Arcade, Biddeford, Me. 29

Pacific Hotel,

170, 172, 174 & 176 Greenwich St.,

(ONE SQUARE WEST OF BROADWAY,)

Between Courtlandt and Dey Sts.,

NEW YORK.

JOHN PATTEN, Jr., Proprietor.

THE PACIFIC HOTEL is well and widely known to the travelling public. The location is especially suitable to merchants and business men; it is in close proximity to the business part of the city—is on the highway of Southern and Western travel—and adjacent to all the principal Railroad and Steamboat depots.

The Pacific has liberal accommodation for over 300 guests; it is well furnished, and possesses every modern improvement for the comfort and entertainment of its inmates. The rooms are spacious and well ventilated; provided with gas and water; the attendance is prompt and respectful; and the table is generously provided with every delicacy of the season.

The subscriber who, for the past few years, has been the lessee, is now sole proprietor, and intends to identify himself thoroughly with the interests of his house. With long experience as a hotel keeper, he trusts, by moderate charges and a liberal policy, to maintain the favorable reputation of the Pacific Hotel.

N. B. To prevent overcharge by hackmen, the coaches of the Hotel are owned by the proprietor.

COFFIN WAREHOUSE.

SOMETHING NEW.

J. C. LIBBY, Sole Proprietor, for this city, of J. S. MERRILL'S Patent Coffin Lid—patented 23d March, 1863. This improvement consists in cutting off the lid, with a projection for the name plate; the lid turning back over the plate with a corresponding recess. The great advantage of this style of coffins is to exhibit the plate with the lid either open or closed—always showing the plate in its proper place, besides adding very much to the beauty of the coffin.

Our Coffin Warerooms were established in 1858, by request of citizens, who have given it a liberal patronage, to whom we would render thanks for past favors; also, for the liberal patronage of this vicinity. No pains will be spared to give satisfaction, and make this the Best Coffin Ware Establishment in this county. As we are continually making new improvements, everything will be fitted up in the very best style.

Some Folks Can't Sleep Nights!

GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., M. S. BURR & CO., AND WEEKS & POTTER,

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS, BOSTON,

Are now prepared to supply Hospitals, Physicians and the trade, with the standard and invaluable remedy,

DODD'S NERVINE.

This article surpasses all known preparations for the Cure of all forms of Nervousness.

It is rapidly superceding all preparations of Opium and Valerian—the well known result of which is to produce Costiveness and other serious difficulties—as it allays Irritation, Restlessness and Spasms, and induces regular action of the bowels and secretive organs.

No preparation for Nervous Diseases ever sold so readily or met with such universal approval. For Fits, Sleeplessness, Loss of Energy, peculiar Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and all the fearful mental and bodily symptoms that follow in the train of nervous disease, Dodd's Nervine is the best remedy known to science. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1.

Hasheesh! Hasheesh!

One of the Oldest Remedies known to Medical Science.

THE HASHEESH CANDY now imported and prepared by the SYLVAN ORIENT CO., under the supervision of one of the most thorough Medical Chemists in the country, is the only pleasant and reliable preparation of this reliable remedy ever offered to the public, and is fast taking the place of and will soon supersede all other Medicines now used for the alleviation or cure of

NEURALGIA,
ASTHMA,
RHEUMATISM,
GENERAL DEBILITY,
DYSPEPSIA;
HEADACHE.

and all diseases of the Nervous System. In oriental countries, Hasheesh has for centuries been the theme of Poets, Philosophers and Novel Writers, both for its marvelous influence on the mind when used experimentally, and for its almost miraculous qualities when prepared as a medicine. The Bengal Dispensatory says the "effects of Hasheesh are popularly known in the south of Africa, Turkey, Asia Minor, Egypt, India, and all the adjacent territories, and in all the popular medicines of these nations; we find it extensively employed for a multitude of afflictions." In a standard treatise of Materia Medica more than six hundred years old it is described as the most valuable of all known remedies

Sold by all Druggists. Imported only by the Sylvan Orient Company, 151 Washington st., Boston, Mass.

MANHOOD—HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

JUST published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Address the publishers.
